

Delivering the New Primary National Curriculum for English and Mathematics

Chaired by Sir Jim Rose

This Spring you are invited to a series of conferences to provide you with information on what is changing and how best to go about managing and implementing change, to ensure effective and inspiring teaching and learning.

Attend this conference to consider different ways of re-designing your curriculum to raise standards of attainment, based on best practice examples from schools like yours. Chaired by Sir Jim Rose and with input from the Department for Education and leading experts in education as well as practising headteachers, each conference will address:

- Understanding the main changes to the Primary National Curriculum 2014
- Step-by-step to planning and implementing the new English and Mathematics Curriculum
- Designing a Curriculum that's right for your school
- Implementing effective staff development for smooth transition

An essential event for all Primary school leaders, this national update on the New Curriculum will give you the opportunity to hear from a panel of educational experts and school leaders.

What are the benefits of attending?

- Hear directly from the Department for Education on the new National Curriculum
- Understand how to plan and deliver the new National Curriculum effectively
- Get your questions answered by an expert panel
- Have the chance to network with other school leaders

Who should attend?

Representatives from primary schools, academies and local authorities including:

- Head Teachers
- Deputy and Assistant Head Teachers
- Curriculum Development Teams
- Subject Leaders and Class Teachers.
